

PERSPECTIVES

on diversity

a series of conversations sponsored by the Berkeley Lab Diversity Council

LEE MUN WAH Founder and Director of StirFry Seminars & Consulting

Wed., October 6, 2010

Building 50 Auditorium

Noon - 1pm

Unlearning Stereotypes: Initiating Diversity Conversations in the Workplace

A nationally-acclaimed lecturer and Master Diversity & Communications Trainer, Lee Mun Wah is a Chinese American community therapist, documentary filmmaker, Special Education educator, performing poet, Asian folk teller and author. As the Executive Director of StirFry Seminars & Consulting, he works with corporations, government agencies, educational institutions, and social agencies to facilitate diversity issues through healthy and authentic cross cultural relationships. Lee Mun Wah believes when we value others for their uniqueness and differences, then we enhance the possibilities for our children and ourselves. For more information, see: stirfryseminars.com

Lawrence Berkeley
National Laboratory