

Scientific Publications

Scientific Publications collects scientific and technical documents published by Berkeley Lab, checks that these documents comply with DOE and LBNL requirements, and assigns an LBNL publication number for tracking. The documents are then disseminated for open access to the DOE's Office of Scientific and Technical Information (OSTI) Science.gov, and the California Digital Library's eScholarship collection.

You can submit a new paper, manage your submissions, or search through LBNL reports by using the Publications System. To perform these functions, login using your LBNL LDAP name and password, and select the appropriate function from the navigation menu.

You will find answers to many questions in the Scientific Publications FAQs .

To find out more about support, getting started, help, and rates, see the Scientific Publications service description.
